BORROWED CAPITAL.—The San Francisco Daily Bulletin of the 23d April reprints as original the letter of Capt. Popham, of the British ship Kathay, which appeared in the Advertiser of March 30, with some slight additions at the close, relating to the captain and crew going to San Francisco, the latter having been altered so as to make it addressed to the editor of the Bulletin. It is quite immaterial to us how much of the news collected from various quarters of this ocean and published by us, is thus appropriated; but the public cannot long respect a paper which resorts to such shifts in providing news. The character of a first class journal ought to be esteemed as too valuable to be compromised in any such way.
